

World Politics

WikiLeaks' Assange: Russia didn't give us emails

By Euan McKirdy, CNN

Top Stories

Republican senators launch bill to move US embassy to Jerusalem

Lawmakers preparing Russia sanctions bill

Boxed into a corner? Trump's limited options on North Korea

Global Affairs

From US State Department

US administration '100% certain' about Russian hacking

By Mick Krever, CNN

Kerry: 2-state solution in 'serious jeopardy'

State Dept. 'surprised' by UK backlash to Kerry speech

WH says it would veto UN resolution recognizing Palestinian state

Obama administration prepares sanctions, retaliation for Russian election meddling

Abe, Obama affirm alliance in ceremony at Pearl Harbor

Obama: Syrians' blood on hands of Assad and Russia

Trump And The World

Trump, Palin break with GOP, warm up to Assange

By David Wright and Eugene Scott, CNN

Trump derides intel briefing on 'so-called' Russian hacking Facing growing North Korea nuke threat, Trump vows: 'It won't happen!'

Ford cancels Mexico plant, will create 700 US jobs in 'vote of confidence' for Trump

Trump promises to reveal info on Russia

What's their angle? Breaking down Putin, Trump, Obama spy games

Putin congratulates Trump, not Obama, in New Year's statement

JIM WATSON/GETTY IMAGES

Huckabee visits West Bank: 'Build Israel Great Again'

By Oren Liebermann, CNN

Standing in front of a bright red banner reading "Build Israel Great Again," former Republican presidential candidate Mike Huckabee promised Tuesday during an appearance in the West Bank that President-elect Donald Trump's policies toward Israel would be very different than President Barack Obama's.

STEVE APPEL/GETTY IMAGES

Kim Jong Un says North Korea close to testing intercontinental ballistic missile

By K.J. Kwon and Joshua Berlinger, CNN

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un said that his country is close to testing an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Get ready for another year of global tumult

By Stephen Collinson, CNN

The political tumult that rocked the world in 2016 might be an appetizer for 2017.

Crist 'open' to Trump's 35% tariff on businesses going overseas

By Eugene Scott, CNN

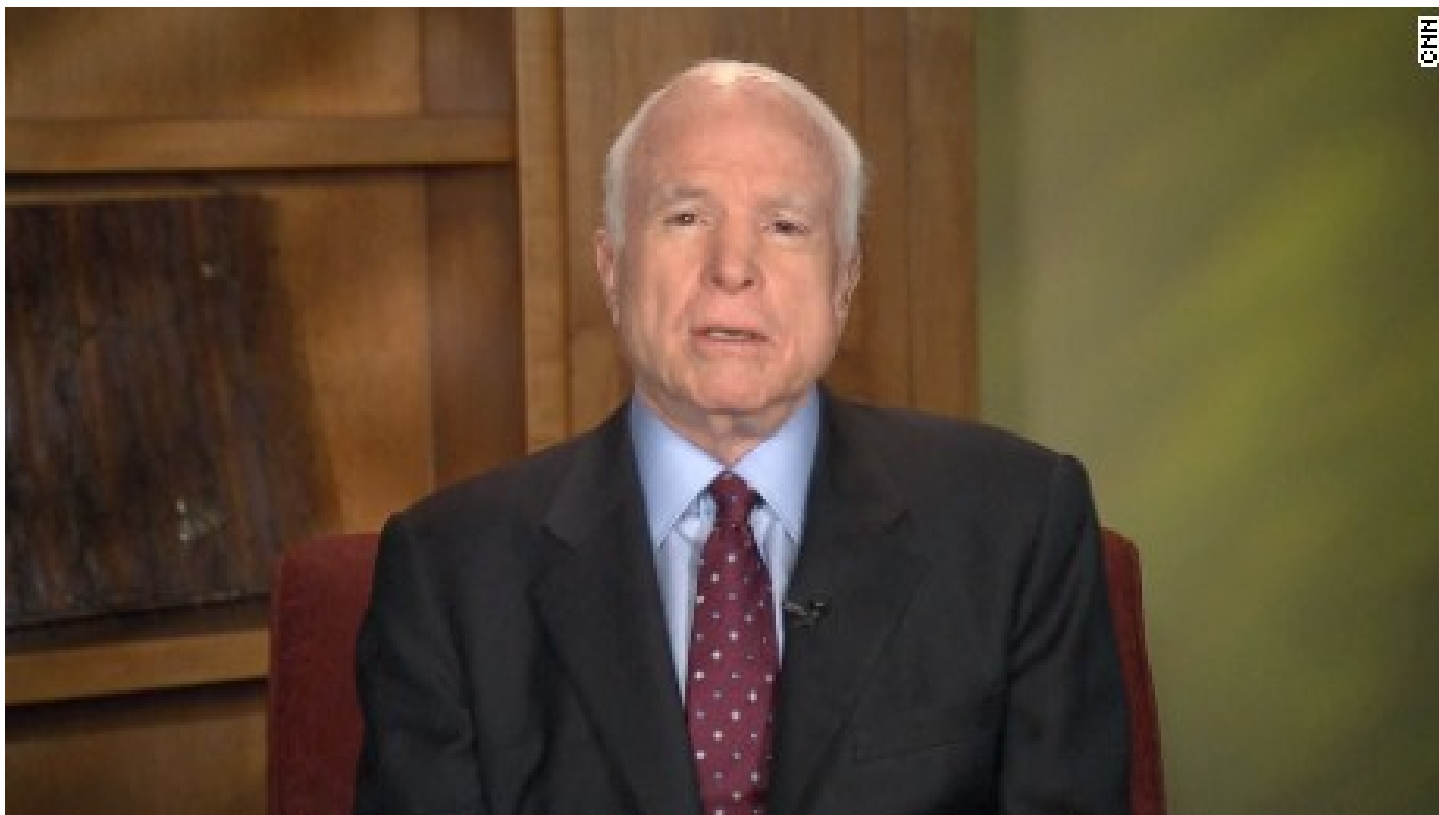

Congressman-elect Charlie Crist said he is willing to consider President-elect Donald Trump's proposed tariff on businesses for the sake of keeping jobs in the United States.

Trump: Putin 'very smart' for decision to withhold sanctions

By Caroline Kenny and Kevin Liptak, CNN

President-elect Donald Trump deemed Russian President Vladimir Putin "very smart" Friday for withholding reciprocal sanctions on the US, at least for the time being.

McCain: Russian cyberintrusions an 'act of war'

By Deirdre Walsh, CNN Senior Congressional Producer

Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John McCain has scheduled a hearing for Thursday on foreign cyber threats to the United States, including the Russian hacking in the 2016 US presidential election, a committee aide told CNN.

What do we know about the Russian compounds in the US?

By Daniella Diaz, CNN

As part of President Barack Obama's sanctions against the Russian government for its alleged meddling in the 2016 presidential election, two Russian compounds, located in New York State and Maryland, will be closed.

Putin: Russia won't expel US diplomats

By Laura Smith-Spark and Matthew Chance, CNN

Russian President Vladimir Putin said Friday that Moscow will not expel American diplomats in response to US sanctions against Russia.

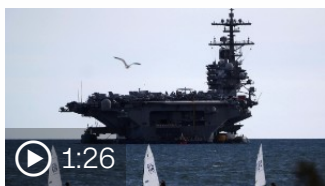

Spies among us: Russia and US have been expelling operatives for years

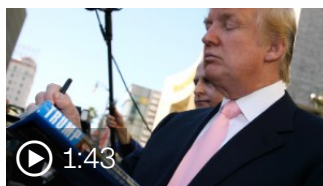

By Barbara Starr and Theodore Schleifer, CNN

It's a Cold War-era dance of spies that continues, even in 2016.

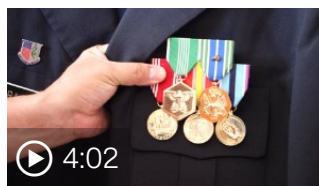

Politics Video

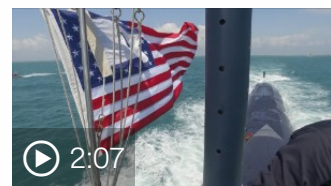

Onboard a warship before it fights ISIS

Watch Trump evolve on ISIS

Deported US military veterans live in limbo

Life on USS Missouri nuclear submarine

Opinion

No, Trump: Russian hacking is not like the CIA's WMD fiasco

Why Trump should make North Korea a top priority

New Year's resolution: Hold Russia accountable

Istanbul attack: Turkey must end blame game and look for solutions

The folly of Trump's palace guard

Trump team doomed to repeat Bush's mistakes

What Trump's Cabinet of 'best people' lacks

Obama must pardon Manning and Snowden before Trump takes office

Trump's bromance with Putin will split the West in two

More Global Political News

Obama appoints former White House staffers to posts

Obama marks final press briefing of his White House

These Democrats aren't attending

Sources: Trump labor pick Andrew Puzder has voiced

Trump's inauguration second thoughts about nomination

Trump on Common Core

Trump on releasing his tax returns

Trump on bringing jobs back to America

Trump on deporting undocumented immigrants

Trump on using waterboarding

Here's Donald Trump's
inaugural lunch menu

Trump on a national database for U.S. Muslims

Vladimir Putin dismisses Donald Trump dossier claims as 'rubbish'

Obama UN rep
rips Russia, rejects attack on intel agencies

US ambassador rejects attack on intel agencies

The world needs fixing — and Trump thinks he's the man to do it

Trump rattles NATO with
'obsolete' blast

Fort Lauderdale shooter says he carried out

Repealing Obamacare without replacement

Obama to travel to Palm Springs after inauguration

Obama pops in final White House briefing